

Sunday Success

What are we celebrating this week?

3 new starters this week!

It feels like every week we're introducing more members to the Project Partners team. This week is no different, with 3 new Partners joining the Tesco Bank team.

David Johnston

David has joined us as a Test Consultant with over 25 years of experience. He's previously worked in the Utility, Finance, Banking and Local government sectors, leading on a range of diverse and complex projects. With extensive use of both Waterfall and Agile methodologies, we look forward to finding out his take on our ABCDE methodology.

Debbie Watson

Debbie is our newest Lead Business Analyst. She's highly experienced with end-to-end Project lifecycle, with a real focus on project delivery. With skills in production of the Business Case, Project Planning, Business Requirements elicitation and management, Risk and Issue Management, Testing and Implementation Planning, we're sure she'll be bringing plenty to the team!

Chuks Ndubueze

And finally, Chuks is joining us as a Data Modeler. He is a customer-centric, cloud certified and experienced data architect, who is passionate about enabling organisations to perform better and achieve business objectives through the power of data analytics. Sounds right up our street!

We hope you'll join us in welcoming them to the team!

Congratulations are also in order to Simon Stekler for passing his driving test!

Your hard work has paid off. Enjoy the road rage to come!
